No Sentiment for France or Italy

Considerations of Leniency Extended to Belgium Do Not Apply to Other Countries in Payment of World War Debts.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Ability of France and Italy to pay will be the dominating factor in the forthcoming negotiations for funding of the war and post war debts those countries owe the United States. It was stated officially today at the treasury department.

Although the Belgian settlement agreed upon late last week involved special considerations which will not obtain in the negotiations with France next month, a sympathy with the present financial condition will be the keynote of the American position, it was declared.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon believes that the Belgian settlement was fair both to that country and the United States. Moral obligations of the United States to Belgium were the dominating factors in the negotiations.

Belgium's ability to pay, coupled with President Wilson's promise to Belgium that leniency would be given in a settlement of the pre-armistice debt, was the basis upon which the conference finally settled on a payment plan.

Similar conditions do not exist in the cases of Italy and France. The treasury said, as Belgium gave us strong claims for additional German reparations upon President Wilson's assurance that extra consideration would be given in return for this country.

The treasury reported that the Belgian settlement was secured on substantially the same basis as that of Great Britain, the only material difference being the elimination of interest in the pre-armistice obligation.

Particular significance was attached to the treasury attitude today because of the French announcement that their debt funding delegation would sail on September 15 for New York.

Because France has no admission by America that there is a difference between post and pre-armistice debts, the negotiations were expected today to develop primarily around France's ability to pay, rather than the sentimental obligations of war.

Civil War Vet's Widow Victimized

Authorities Investigate Alleged Swindle of Widow of Civil War Veteran at Glasco by Man Who Posed as Government Eye Specialist.

The authorities of Ulster county are investigating the alleged swindle of a widow of a Civil War veteran at Glasco, by a man who posed as a government specialist and forced the woman to buy glasses from him upon that representation. A neighbor who is interested in the case has communicated with the Poughkeepsie Eagle-News, asking that the stranger's action be broadcast so that other widows will not be victimized.

According to the neighbor's story, says the Eagle-News, a man dressed in a gray suit, accompanied by his wife, and traveling in a Dodge roadster, 1922 model, appeared at the general store in Glasco and asked for the address of any widows receiving pensions from the government. He was directed to the poor widow in question, whose husband was a veteran of the Civil War.

The stranger went to her home and told her that he was a specialist sent by the government to examine her eyes. In spite of her objections, he obliged her to sit before him in a certain light and submit to an eye test and by tricks it is alleged that he made it appear that she was nearly blind in one eye. After this, he is said to have prescribed glasses in place of the ones she was using.

In order to pay for the new glasses she was urged to give him the little money she had saved from her pension check and he also took a very old gold watch that had been carried by her husband.

Before he left, he tried to coax her to write a check for him and when told that she had no money in the bank, he accompanied her to a Glasco business man, where he asserted that the widow owed him money for the glasses that she refused to buy and that instead of taking them, she was going to an oculist, rather than accept the ones she had ordered.

Sheriff C. Fred Close when shown the communication from the widow's neighbor, announced that he knew of one man who lived in this vicinity a few years ago who might be the guilty person. This man corresponded to the description that was furnished and is known to have traveled throughout the south selling glasses in rural districts.

US Commissioner Adjourns Case

Against Earl Miller, Charged With Having Had Three Five Gallon Cans of Alcohol in His Car When Arrested for Speeding.

Earl Miller, who was arrested by State Trooper Metzger Monday near Lake Katrine on the Saugerties-Kingston state highway, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Arthur C. Connelly Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on a charge of having had three five gallon cans of alcohol in his car at the time of his arrest. Miller demanded an examination and the case was adjourned until next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Miller, driving an Overland car, was picked up by Trooper Metzger on a turn on the highway just north of Lake Katrine. He was charged with reckless driving and arraigned before Justice of the Peace Walter Webber at Flatbush. A fine of $15 was paid and a jail sentence of five days was suspended.

The cans containing the alleged alcohol were turned over to the sheriff and the federal authorities informed.

JAPAN SHAKEN BY SLIGHT QUAKES

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Tokio, Aug. 20.—Acha and Oita prefectures were shaken by an earthquake early today.

Clocks were stopped in Nagoya and other cities, but no serious damages have been reported.

The tremor frightened the populace.

ONLY A FEW LEFT.

And They Are Thinking of Future Breakfasts and Picnics.

Phonetic, Aug. 20.—It seems good to look around and realize there are a few boys on the old fashioned plan. They are not afraid to take a girl to the movies or treat them to a dish of ice cream. The new fangled new plan boys don't do this. They go with the other fellow and eat cream in each other's fellowship. They are not odd because some of them are good looking but it's just a way they have fallen into. When they get older they will want some one to cook the breakfast and make simple pie and then they may wish they had passed over the ice cream.

Fish and Game Systems.

County Clerk John H. Saxe received today from the State Conservation Department at Albany, copies of the syllabus of the laws of 1925 relating to fish and game. Hunters and fishermen can get copies by applying at the office.

Deaths Reach 42 From Excursion Boat Explosion

Medical Authorities Predict Continuation of Deaths Among Those Who Were Scalded When Boiler Exploded on Thread Mill Employees' Outing.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 20.—Despite the unceasing vigilance of weary and worn doctors, death again slipped into the casualty wards of both the Newport and the Naval hospitals here early today and with its stilling louch raised the Mackinac death toll above the two score mark.

At the Naval Hospital Harold Sherman of No. 16 Locust street, Pawtucket, was the first to slip away today. He was quickly followed by Pauline Stephens at 5:50 o'clock and then between that hour and seven o'clock Mary Grace Wildenhelm of No. 1 Masterson street, a child, and Mrs. McCarthy of Pawtucket succumbed.

Little fifteen months' old Jean Barbara McCarthy, found among several unidentified children in the infant ward of the Newport Hospital yielded up her life, the 41st victim of the Mackinac disaster.

The little girl's father lies in the same hospital and physicians there hold out no hope for his recovery. With his passing, the Mackinac boiler explosion will have claimed one entire family.

Donald Wilderhelm of No. 100 Johnson street, Pawtucket, succumbed to burns at the Newport City Hospital shortly before noon today. Wilderhelm is the forty-second victim of the Mackinac disaster and the fifth to pass away today.

The death list now totals forty-two with more than a dozen more fatalities seemingly certain before the day is over.

Predict Deaths Will Continue.

Medical authorities here predict that the fatalities will continue to occur throughout today, tomorrow, and possibly into Saturday. Local police are expected to be sent to the scene of the disaster today in small boats to drag the edges of the cove for any additional victims.

Seven Still Missing.

There has as yet been no sign of little Jean Barbara McCarthy, whose entire family was wiped out by the blast. Three members of the crew of the ill-fated Mackinac are also still missing, as well as two men, David A. Burns and Alfred Braut, both of Pawtucket, and seven year old Edward Gikas.

Old Boiler, "Thinned Down."

Assistant Attorney General Oscar L. Helzen today made the first tangible statement as to the result of the state and Federal probes being conducted into the cause of the disaster. He said:

"State officials viewed the boiler and found it an old one, deteriorated by wear and thinned down in certain places."

"If officers of a steamer on which an explosion occurs have been guilty of negligence by acts of either commissioner or omission they may, where loss of life ensues, be guilty of manslaughter."

Favors State Boiler Inspection.

Governor Aram J. Pothier of Rhode Island declared Wednesday night that more stringent laws should be passed by the state for steamboat boiler inspection.

"I am shocked beyond words to learn of the terrible tragedy aboard the steamer Mackinac," the governor said. "The families and friends of the unfortunate victims have my deepest sympathy. Our laws should be made more stringent to avoid the recurrence of such a disaster."

Secretary Hoover Acts Promptly.

Senator Jesse M. Metcalf, one of the heroes of the rescuing fleet, secured immediate action on his telegram to Secretary of Commerce Hoover when Supervising Inspecting General George Uhler left Washington last night for Providence.

He will make a minute and careful examination of the Mackinac's boilers some time today, and it is reported that any proved findings will be made public at once.

Children Shy at Steamer Trip.

Pawtucket, R. I., Aug. 20.—So great an impression has the Mackinac disaster made upon old and young alike that only a small fraction of several hundred youngsters scheduled as guests of the local Elks club are expected to board the Island Belle, chartered to take the party on an outing.

The Elks' committee, equal to the emergency, scurried about and quickly had commandeered a fleet of motor trucks and the little folks were hustled to Rocky Point for the day's trip without further pretext.

BOY CHOKED AND BEATEN TO DEATH

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 20.—When a C. and B. steamer arrives here today from Buffalo, Cleveland detectives hope to arrest the slayer of an 11 year old boy.

He is Joseph Garrauso, said to have been choked and beaten to death late yesterday.

Hold Hornbeck For Grand Jury

Locust Avenue Man Charged With Abducting Josephine Swart—Other Cases Before Judge Schirlick in Police Court.

Calvin Hornbeck of Locust avenue, who was arrested some time ago on a charge of abducting Josephine Swart of this city, and whose hearing had been adjourned until today in police court before Judge Harry E. Schirlick, was held to await the action of the next grand jury. His bail bond was continued.

Hornbeck is married but does not live with his wife. It is charged that he spent several months on a barge with the Swart girl. He was represented at the hearing today by Attorney F. C. Merritt.

Fred Smith and William Best, two train riders, were given half an hour to leave town by Judge Schirlick.

Philip Stise of No. 180 Hasbrouck Avenue Fined $5 for Driving a Ford Coupe Without Either an Operator's or Chauffeur's License.

He was arrested Wednesday by Officer Reilyea following a collision between his Ford and a car of Frank Sicker of 173 Lincoln street at the corner of East Chester street and Hasbrouck avenue in which both cars were somewhat damaged.

New York Stages Street Gun Fight

Policemen Pursue Negro Bandits Through Crowded Section, Exchanging Shots—Three Policemen and One Negro Wounded.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 20.—Three policemen were wounded, one seriously, one negro was shot and another captured in a running gun fight early today, between police and three negro holdup men.

The fight was waged in automobiles, the bandit car being pursued by the policemen. Streets were swept in both directions by bullets from the two cars which at one time sped along a crowded section of Broadway.

Patrolmen Harold Moore and Harry Nichols were taken to a hospital. Moore, who was shot in the abdomen, was said to be in a serious condition. Nichols' chest was grazed by a bullet and another patrolman was shot through the hand. The wounded negro, who was not able to give his name, is not expected to live. The prisoner, John Wages, was said to have confessed that he and his two companions held up a drug store at Forty-first street and Ninth avenue. A traffic officer off duty saw the three men come out of the store after the holdup. They drove off in an automobile and the officer commandeered a private car and gave chase. Dozens of automobiles joined the pursuit and policemen along the route abandoned their beats, boarded the running bandits of automobiles and fired continuously at the bandits' car.

Sympathy Strike For Bank Clerks

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, Aug. 20.—The bank clerks' strike in Marseilles became a more serious problem today when the Marseilles labor unions declared a 24 hour sympathetic general strike beginning this morning.

Business is reported as completely paralyzed in the southern city. Members of the building and trades crafts laid down their tools, street car employees refused to work, making it necessary to suspend the service, taxicabs are not running, post office clerks are away from their places and the street cleaners are taking a holiday.

Is Barley Bad Check Artist?

Lorenzo Barley was arrested this afternoon by Officer Bowers on a warrant obtained by Sam Bernstein, Jr., of Bernstein & Company, Wall street clothiers, charging Barley with passing a bad check for $10. It is claimed that Barley made a purchase amounting to a few dollars and offered the check in payment, receiving back some change. Barley will have a hearing in police court on Friday morning.

DR. DAWES WILL STUDY BRITISH NETWORKS

Dr. Spencer L. Dawes, medical examiner of the New York State Hospital Commission and president of the Inter-State Conference on Immigration, is sailing for England on the steamship Cedric of the White Star Line on Saturday, August 22.

Dr. Dawes' main purpose while abroad is to make a study of the examination of British immigrants under the method advocated by Secretary of Labor Davis and so serve as a basis for the Immigration Commission's report on recent immigration and naturalization.

Husky Grangers Will Compete In Tug of War

Tug of War Contest For the Championship of the County to be Staged at Farm Bureau Picnic Expected to be Best Event of the Day.

Interest among local granges in the county is running at fever pitch over the recent announcement by the County Picnic Committee that all Granges would be asked to enter teams to compete in a Tug of War contest for the championship of the county, at the Ulster County Picnic at Forsyth Park on Friday, August 28.

The further announcement by S. M. Bernstein, Jr., chairman of the entertainment committee that he would offer a silver loving cup to the team winning the event has added real spice to things. Already four Granges have forwarded the names of their team captains to the Farm Bureau Office and have, so to speak, thrown their hats into the ring.

New Paltz, the first entrant, claims to have selected a team of sud bustle's tipping the scales at a 200 pound average. Master Fred Du Bois looks for a sure winner. Ross Osterhout of Stone Ridge states the most sizable gang in the whole county have been given a job of bringing home the bacon for Stone Ridge. As proof he offers the names and weights of Hamilton Gillespie, Frank Bishop, DeForest Bishop, Cornelius Hardenburgh and several other real sizable "little" boys. Ira Thompson of Plattekill is very quiet and unassuming about his entrants. He has placed the matter safely in the hands of Clifford Holting, a Walkill "six footer." These boys will bear watching.

Several other Granges who are contemplating entering are asked to do so as soon as possible as it will greatly facilitate the making of arrangements by the special committee appointed to handle the contest. It will be of interest to many to know that the "Special Committee" in charge consists of L. D. Greene, former Orange County Farm Bureau Manager, now connected with the O. & W. Railroad. All captains are asked to report to Mr. Greene at the hour set for the event with a list of the names of their team. All members should be Grangers and must be vouched for by each team captain.

The addition of this new contest to the annual program of games and stunts promises to be one of the most popular events on the entire list. It means fun for those who take part and fun for all to watch. Bring on your huskies!

SOUTH CHINA EXCLUSION PERPLEXES BRITAIN.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 20.—The order of the South China Government excluding British and Japanese vessels from Chinese ports continued today to perplex the foreign office.

The situation was serious enough to call back Foreign Minister Chamberlain from his summer holiday. He returned to Downing street today and took charge of the direction of affairs personally.

While the foreign office openly attributes the Canton government's discriminatory shipping regulations to Bolshevistic influence, the situation has perplexed aspects due to the fact that Great Britain has not recognized the Canton regime. The foreign office can therefore deal officially only with the Peking Government and the latter is "powerless to assert any effective authority of the Cantonese politicians."

FIREMEN ESCAPE WHEN WALL COLLAPSES

New Pumper for Wiltwyck Station

American La France Automobile Pumper Costing $12,500 Ordered For Wiltwyck Fire Station—Completing Plans For Repair of Station.

The board of fire commissioners at a meeting held Wednesday evening at Central Fire station ordered a new American La France automobile pumper which will be installed in the Wiltwyck fire station on Fair street. The pumper is of the same capacity as the one now in the downtown station but has a number of improvements thereon. The pumper is known as type 75 with a capacity of 750 gallons and will cost $12,500.

Delivery of the pumper will be made December first and all improvements to the fire station will be completed before that time.

Recently the board of fire commissioners petitioned the common council for a bond issue of $25,000 for the purpose of purchasing a new pumper for the uptown station and for needed repairs to Wiltwyck station and other fire houses in the city. The need of a pumper above the West Shore crossing was badly felt and the business men and property owners above the railroad crossing demanded modern fire equipment in the uptown section. The common council recently granted permission for the bond issue.

Plans and specifications for the repairs at the Wiltwyck station have not been completed but the architect will have them ready by next week at which time the board will meet and advertise for bids on the work. New floors are to be placed in the engine house, repairs are to be made to the building both inside and outside, alterations will be made inside to permit sleeping accommodations for the men on duty at the station and a new steel tower for the bell will be erected. The present wood tower had been attacked by dry rot and is in a dangerous condition.

A committee from Wiltwyck Hose Company was present and presented before the board the matter of storing the furnishings of the company during the period of repairs. As the repair work will not be taken up for some time, action was postponed. The committee was informed that proper care would be taken of the furnishings.

As soon as plans are completed bids will be asked for and immediately on letting the contracts work will be started and rushed to completion in ample time for the receiving of the new apparatus.

Picture "Sheik" And Wife at Odds

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 20.—The grapevine of gossip along Broadway was vibrating today with reports that Rudolph Valentino, "Sheik" of movieland, and his wife, the beautiful Natacha, will soon separate.

George Ullman, personal manager for Valentino, admitted a separation was imminent. Ullman declined to supply details but hinted that clouds had descended on the domestic horizon of the movie couple.

Mrs. Valentino declared at her home that she did not care to make any statement. She is preparing to sail for Europe, it was said.

From time to time, the New York movie colony has received stories from the Pacific coast that Rudolph and Natacha were "quarrelling."

Mrs. Valentino insisted on accompanying her husband to the studio when he was making a picture and "Rudy" felt he should be left alone with his art, it was reported.

"I have never been unduly jealous," said Mrs. Valentino when these rumors were reported to her. "There isn't a word of truth in it."

ASKING ALIMONY, WIFE PUTS HUSBAND'S INCOME HIGH.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 20.—Attorneys for Mrs. Emily Emerson of Syracuse today were preparing affidavits to back up a petition for $300 a month alimony in connection with her suit for divorce from T. R. Emerson, of Glen Head, L. I.

Emerson, who was head of the defunct T. R. Emerson Show Company, told the court he was now making only $53 a week as a shoe salesman. Mrs. Emerson said her husband had told her he expected to get a $50,000 a year executive job this year and had made plans for his financial rehabilitation.

WEATHER TOO BAD FOR AIRPLANES TO FLY

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Weather at Etah, Greenland, base of the MacMillan Arctic expedition, has been so consistently bad that it is impossible for the airplanes to fly or do any scientific exploration work. Lieutenant Commander R. E. Byrd, chief of the aerial units with the expedition, declared today in a delayed radio message to the navy department.

Because of the unprecedented poor weather, in and over the expedition, the expedition, has ordered Donald MacMillan, commander, to abandon for this year any attempt to explore the unknown polar regions by air and to return to the United States as soon as adequate studies are made along the northern coast of Greenland and Labrador.

Dollar Day Broke Record In Kingston

Bargains Were Bigger and Better and Volume of Single Day's Business Greatest in History—Restaurants Did a Big Business.

Dollar Day started off with a rush Wednesday morning and closed Wednesday night after establishing a record in all lines of business. The purchasers were well satisfied with the offerings of the merchants and were unanimous in their statements that the Kingston merchants had offered better and bigger bargains than ever before. The merchants themselves all report the greatest single day's business ever transacted at a Dollar Day. The only persons who are glad the day is over are the clerks and sales people who were swamped from morning until late at night. In spite of the crowds, however, there were no long delays in getting waited on and everyone took the day with a smile and a holiday spirit.

Starting off with a rush, Dollar Day gained momentum as the day passed along. By night the streets were crowded and everyone was doing a big business. Uptown the streets were more congested and there were more people out than on the usual Saturday night. Unlike a Saturday night crowd, which is composed partly of pleasure seekers, the crowd Wednesday night was composed mostly of shoppers who had come out to share in the Dollar Day bargains and who were availing themselves of their first opportunity to do so. Much of the evening crowd was made up of people engaged in business during the day and out of town people who came to town after the day's work to gather in some of the desired bargains which were offered for King Dollar.

The Citizens' Band, Harry Malsenholder, director, gave a musical program from the space in front of St. John's Church on Wall street. The concert was a very successful part of the evening's program and was enjoyed by the throng of happy shoppers.

Restaurants were swamped with shoppers and would indicate that one of the biggest crowds ever to attend a sale in Kingston was present. Many of the people came early and many were served with breakfast. By noon all of the restaurants were full and it was necessary to turn people away during the noon hour. In the evening there was also an unusual demand on the restaurants.

It was necessary to put on extra policemen to assist the regular force in directing traffic which was handled with speed and safety and without a single serious accident.

Kingston's Community Dollar Day has passed into history but will be remembered for a long time by both the shoppers and the shop keepers.

Arrest Youth for Double Murder

Captured in Connecticut Cabin in Connection With Hold Up and Killing of Westchester County Trolleyman.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Westport, Conn., Aug. 20.—Joseph Daley, 22, a resident supposedly of New York, was arrested in a cabin in Weston, several miles north of the village, today, charged with the murder of two trolley men at Mt. Vernon, N. Y., several weeks ago. Daley, according to state police attached to the local barracks, admitted his part in the hold up and shooting and immediately waived extradition to go back to New York state where he was to face the authorities at White Plains, county seat of Westchester county.

According to the state police, Daley remarked after he had confessed to the hold up and admitted the shootings: "What else could I do? They wouldn't stick 'em up when I told them to."

A squad of four New York state troopers, accompanied by four Connecticut state policemen, left Westport just after midnight and drove to the locality of the cabin where they had previously located the youth. Then the officers surrounded the structure and made the arrest swiftly and without trouble. Within a short time the youth had agreed to go back through the formalities of extradition proceedings.

View of Friendship

I have never given much encouragement to friendship; I have done little for my friends, and they have done little for me. One of the ideas which I have so often to cope with is that friendship, as it is generally understood, is an injustice and a blunder, which only allows you to distinguish the good qualities of a single person and blinds you to those of others who are perhaps more deserving of your sympathy.—BROWN MENA.

Primary Battle Postpones Debate

Between Governor Smith and Ogden L. Mills Until After September 15
—Smith Will Spend Time in Campaigning For Walker.

By Telegram to The Freeman
Albany, Aug. 20.—The New York city primary battle has postponed the debate between Governor Smith and Representative Ogden L. Mills on the $100,000,000 bond issue until after September 15.

The debate, when held, will be in some upstate city.

Early in July the governor debated the proposal with former Governor Nathan L. Miller in New York city. Miller charged the proposal was nothing more than a "pork barrel."

From now until primary day, Governor Smith expects to spend most of his time in Greater New York where he will campaign for Senator James J. Walker, Tammany Hall's candidate for mayor.

Republican leaders throughout the state, according to reports which have reached the capitol, are planning for a fight to the finish against the $100,000,000 bond issue.

Friends of the governor declared, however, that the executive was confident the proposal would be approved by the voters at this fall's election.

Governor Smith challenged both former Governor Miller and Representative Mills to debate the bond issue after they had attacked it in statements issued to the public.

When former Governor Miller accepted the challenge Governor Smith said he would debate Mills upstate later in the summer.

After the primary campaign in New York city, the governor expects to go through the state speaking in behalf of the proposed amendment to the constitution which would reduce the elective state officials from seven to four and consolidate the 108 bureaus and agencies of the government into 21 main departments. He also will urge the adoption of the $300,000,000 bond issue for the elimination of railroad grade crossings.

It is understood that the debate between Mills and Governor Smith will take place either in Syracuse or Rochester. In all probability it will be broadcast, as was the Smith-Miller debate in New York.

Hobbies of the Great and the Near Great

Being a Series of Intimate Glimpses Into the Fads and Foibles of Well-Known Figures in National Life.

This is the twenty-eighth of a series of intimate sketches which reveal the national political figure as a "brother under the skin" to the man behind the plow, the white collar worker or the day laborer. Others will follow.

SENATOR WILLIAM H. KING.
All humanity having carried its grief to his door, Senator William H. King (D., of Utah) has developed a hobby of crusading for the establishment of tolerance throughout the world.

A firm believer in the Jeffersonian theories of government, Senator King has raised his voice unceasingly to champion the rights of weaker nations and lesser peoples. Nations, states, communities have appealed to him time and again for aid against real or fancied wrongs and King never has failed to give them his help. He probably is the nation's outstanding exponent of the doctrine of state's rights, self determination of peoples and for tolerance in world affairs.

In his meteoric political career, King has won prominence by championing the causes of the Armenians against Turkish oppression, of the Haitians against American intolerance, of the German people against Allied oppression, of the Philippines against American interference, of the Russian people against all outside intervention, and of the Greek nation against Turkish encroachments. This has been his great hobby.

In the forum of the Senate, King has fought their battles, seeking, sometimes in vain, to force the American Government to use its good influence to correct the complained of evils. He does not always succeed, but he always does a good job of fighting.

Gives Up Vacations.
King even neglects his vacations to investigate the exact conditions which have caused the appeals to him for aid.

Two years ago he visited Haiti and San Domingo at his own expense to see the exact situation which had caused the Haitians to protest against the presence of American troops. He returned convinced that the United States was "violating" its own Monroe Doctrine, and forthwith he demanded the recall of all American troops. Similarly, it was his voice which was first raised to demand recall of the American Army of Occupation from Germany, and in that he subsequently won a victory.

A year ago he visited Russia, Poland and Siberia to determine at first hand whether the Russian Soviet Government was worthy of American recognition. He returned opposed to national recognition, but firm in the belief that the United States should develop trade with the Russian people and that all outside nations should let Russia work out her own political problems.

Visits Balkans.
This summer he goes to Armenia, Greece and the Balkans to determine whether the Turkish Government has violated the Sevres Treaty. He wants to know the facts so he can act upon appeals from American friends of Greece and Armenia for relief from Turkish oppression. Probably no other man in the capital has given so much of his own time to national and international problems as has King.

Throughout the sessions of Congress he spends more hours in his office than any other member devotes to similar work. Some nights the lights burn over his desk until long after midnight. Anecdotes of King's long hours no longer get a smile among Senate employees. They know the Utah Senator has long ago won all prizes for hours of labor.

The Senator keeps a great law library. He began gathering it when he was named a Justice of the State Supreme Court, in Utah, before he was thirty and when only four years out of college. It is one of the largest private libraries in Washington.

The Senator's favorite authors are Darwin, Goethe, Huxley and Spencer. He believes every young man and woman should read the Bible, Greene's History of England and Plato's Republic. He also is a Shakespearean student and in former days he loved to watch Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett or Henry Irving portraying the roles that came from the Bard's pen.

Tomorrow—Senator George W. Norris.

Use Cold Storage In Education

Facts Packed in Memory to be Recalled as Needed Instead of Leading Pupil to Think and Imagine, Sheldon Tells Bankers and Others.

A group of bankers, professional men and employers listened with close attention to Mr. Sheldon at the Advance Restaurant on Wednesday evening. The subject was "Education," Mr. Sheldon's attitude being that in our system of education we have departed from the fundamental things of life. The fundamentals of life are not taught and teachers are not trained to teach them. Our education system was built from the top down and not from the bottom up, as God makes oaks grow. The high school fits for the university and the grade school fits for the high school and until very recently neither made any attempt to fit for business. The aim of the schools has been to, ultimately, fit for the university, which only a very small percentage can attend and many of these only receive a case of mental indigestion from their university studies.

The head, heart, body and will are the elements in life and of these the schools aim to educate only the head. There is athletic training, but that is not physical culture; for those who need it. Only the naturally strong and hardy get into athletics—the big bucks who do not need it. The word education is derived from the Latin word which means to draw out. We are filling in, instead of drawing out and much of the filling in is with material that is away up in the air, while business is down on the earth. Even the one thing we are doing—filling the head—we are not doing right. We just fill in, instead of leading the pupil to think and imagine. We use the cold storage system, pack facts into memory and then recall them as needed just as we withdraw food products from a cold storage warehouse.

Individualism is all right if there is not too much of it, and there is too much. Children permitted to have their own way in order to develop their personalities are just preparing work for the policeman. The world has been over sold on democracy, on mythical rights and liberty that is license.

In closing Mr. Sheldon divided labor into four classes: the syndicalist, the thief of time, the honest but selfish and the one for all and all for one. Employers he also divided into four classes: the autocrat, the man who thinks he can buy morale with money, the paternalist and the leader. He paid special attention to the employer who belongs to the first two classes, rapidly diminishing and very much out of date, and stressed the responsibility of the employer for right leadership and a square deal in relation to his employees.

League Pool Price For July Milk

The Dairyman's League Cooperative Association announces a gross pool price for July milk of $1.915. This is the base price of 3% milk at the 201-210 mile zone from New York City. Expenses for the month were $1.065 per 100 pounds, leaving a net pool price of $1.85. This includes 10c for certificates of indebtedness. It makes the base cash distribution to league farmers $1.75. Individual checks will vary according to freight and butter fat differentials.

This net pool price of $1.85 is 17c per 100 pounds higher than the average July pool price since 1921. It is 52c higher than the average butter value of 100 pounds of 3% milk during the month of July. In the same mail which brings their July milk checks league farmers will also receive their thirteenth check for the fiscal year which ended March 31, 1925. This check represents the proceeds on sales not included in previous monthly checks during the fiscal year and is the final accounting for the year.

Latest Modes in Evening Dresses

Interesting Designs Made in Paris Show Many Variations.

In the great volume of entertaining fashion news from Paris the summer evening costume is presented in a burst of color and beauty, observes a fashion writer in the New York Times. One hears much about the all-day frock, about evening sports clothes, about everything that tends to simplify the mode of dress for dinner and the dance. There are fads and facts among a large element in the world where fashion counts. But there are still those in conventional society who enjoy the privilege of wearing the gown to fit the occasion, and who encourage the art of the best designers.

Those who define the styles and set the pace are doing glorious things this season. The leading creators have succeeded in intriguing the fancy of women of affluence and a love of fine raiment with the most important and artistic things that have been offered in many a year. These are being flashed before admiring audiences in fashion centers, both at the swaggers resorts abroad and on this side. From every indication the watering places at which the ultramart will foregather this year will form a mise en scene for fashion pageants of uncommon significance and splendor.

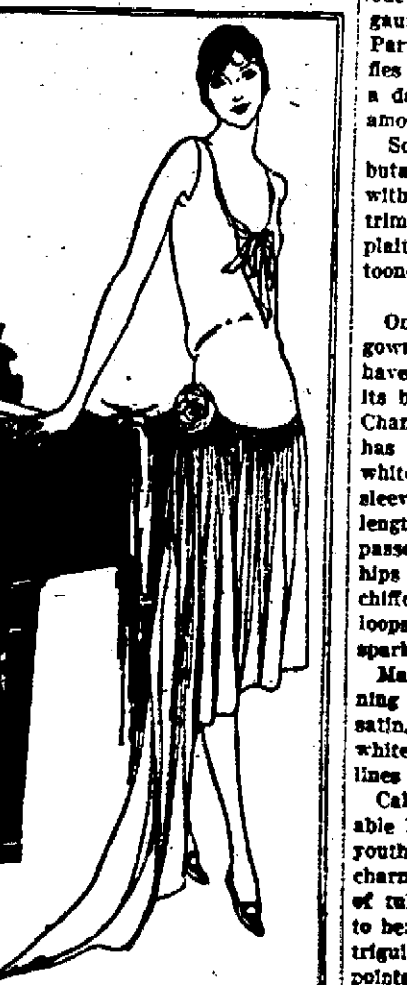

The "season" in London and the various public and private affairs at Paris have given the summer styles an impetus that will carry on at Deauville, Le Tourquet and the Lido.

On this side a gay season is expected. The returning travelers from Europe who have had this year an unprecedented feast of beautiful designs and fine fabrics will bring back the last word in style.

The Exposition of Decorative Arts has been, of course, a rare opportunity for the world at large, the influence of which is already apparent in the models presented by prominent houses in New York. The prevailing models are forecast by some illustrious examples in evening gowns by many of the leading Paris creators. These are of as many different types as there are individuals in the artistic world. It is evident that the simplicity phase is changing; that more complex designs are in vogue, influencing to a greater or less degree all of the gowns, wraps and ensembles for midsummer.

Beaded or Embroidered. The "slinky" one-piece frock is seen now only in the heavily beaded or embroidered patterns for which some women have a particular fondness. The flare or circular movement is seen in everything from the bias cut in a gown or coat of heavy satin or cloth to the swirling skirts and fluttering draperies of the sheerest lace frock. This effect is attained in the circular cut of the fabric by godets, inset panels, or by the addition of smaller pieces of the goods; sometimes of lace. There must be in dresses of this type no appearance of plainness.

A variant of the trimmed code is apparent in the use of plaiting, which increases in popularity as the season advances and which is arranged in many different ways on gowns of soft or very thin material. This accentuates sharply the frilly appearance which is now so much liked, and some chic models from well-known couturiers are done in this manner.

Among the conservatives Worth employs plaiting in his composition; usually in long lines, from shoulder to hem or from the waistline downward. Doubtless goes in for finely plaited sources, using them across or up and down a frock as best suits the model, but usually lavishly. In this feature this artist is quite impartial, introducing small insets, long panels and skirts of fine plaiting, or trimmed with several plaited ruffles set on at even spaces.

Curiously enough the designs from this house of recognized art include some exceedingly handsome evening gowns of the directly opposite type, straight in line and trimmed in flat of effects with silk ropes and deep-knotted fringe in long curves.

This scheme is delightfully illustrated in white and silver lace over black color, the fringe of white silk and the roses faintly rose tinted and tipped with silver and rhinestones. In a unique and somewhat startling dance frock designed for Deauville the bodice is entirely plain, in mauve satin made surplice with front and back, with bands of pale-green ribbon to finish the edge and crossing, suspender fashion, to the normal waistline, which has a soft belt of mauve. Over a straight narrow petticoat of satin matching the bodice is gathered a full tunic overskirt of tulle in the two shades, pointed front and back, very bouffant and edged with a narrow ruffling of the tulle. The novelty of this dress is apparent, but it is a model which might nevertheless be easily and effectively copied in simple materials for a far less tax than is imposed along with the label of a prominent establishment at Paris. Chiffon is used.

In one of these plaited gowns that is unusual, chiffon, shading from pale pink to cerise, is used; two flounces forming the skirt. Another flounce is used for the sleeveless, decollete bodice.

Sash of Gold Cloth Girdles Dress of Heavy Pink Satin.

and each is ironed out for a space of five or six inches across the bottom to give the frilly appearance. A frilly little dance frock of pink chiffon has coral chiffon finely plaited to form a deep-pointed flounce around the neck and inset panels on the skirt.

An ingenious designer, whose models are often plain and of rich material, presents one particularly fascinating gown of crepe chiffon in petunia pink embroidered across the decollete bodice in a floral pattern of beads and pink-tinted pearls. In order to give a pliant effect a plaited fan of tulle is added at one side of the tunic.

Plaiting, as a relief from the severity plain lines that have been so long in vogue, has completely won public fancy, and most of the creators are making use of plaiting in some manner.

The plaited flounce in soft material, the lovely crepes and chiffons that form fluttering borders, or the ironed-out frill of the more crisp tulle and gauzes are seen on some of the latest Paris models. The tint-plaited ruffles seen in rows around the skirt of a dance frock are immensely popular among the younger women.

Some charming dresses for the debutante element are made of tulle, with full-gathered skirts that are trimmed with many rows of narrow plaiting, applied in straight lines, festooned or pointed.

Will Be Reproduced. One of the most beautiful evening gowns brought over this season will have many reproductions because of its becomingness. It comes from the Chanel atelier, a two-piece dress that has the effect of being all in one, of white chiffon and crystal beads. The sleeveless low-cut bodice is trimmed lengthwise with stripes of the crystal passementerie, and the skirt below the hips is a succession of ruffles of the chiffon, each of which is edged with loops and drops of crystal, like a sparkling cascade.

Madeline Vionnet has created a stunning evening gown of white crepe satin, which is altogether covered with white silk fringe applied in diagonal lines to form points in front and back.

Calot does some of the most adorable ball dresses seen this year. One youthful model which is especially charming for one of slender figure is of tulle, the skirt buffeted from belt to hem with the same goods. Other intriguing models are trimmed in deep points of passementerie. One of ivory satin, with plain very low-fitted bodice which shows a decided tendency toward the "pinched" waistline has the crossed straps of the satin. Attached to the bodice is the circular skirt which is embroidered with diagonal lines of silver and crystal beads, forming a diamond-shaped pattern. The bottom of the flaring skirt is cut in points and edged with the beads.

Each model of the new type is as artistic as to style, and there are so many, differing widely, that every woman of fashion, whatever her profession, may find something suitable and modish.

Phoenicia, Aug. 12.—Mr. and Mrs. H. Port of Port Ewen called on Harriet Loomis Sunday.

Mrs. Skidmore nicely entertained the M. E. Aid Thursday at the parsonage.

The reports showed the receipts of the fair to be $420. The expenses not being very heavy a fine margin will be the net.

Mrs. Smith donated a dandy large bouquet to the Aid and Mrs. J. Townsend, Mrs. B. Schwarzwalder Mrs. O. 1911 and Mrs. R. Bennett presented the Aid with nice drinking glasses.

The pastor with the trustees has engaged a carpenter and mason to begin right away, the new kitchen to be joined on the church.

A vote of thanks was extended Mrs. Skidmore for the nice refreshments served at the close.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Grant.

Dancing and music was a part of the evening at the Waldorf on Sunday.

Things will have to jump as this is the last two weeks of the summer and then Labor Day puts the quietness all around. The rentals have not given up to the average as in previous years. Homeowners have not been in as great a demand.

The Ten Commandments will be shown here for three evenings as the film had to be obtained this way. The photography will be screened Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings.

The Misses Vera Boice, Mary Van Steenburgh and Helen Secker took tea with Mrs. H. Brethaupt.

KING AND QUEEN COBRA

"It's not every one who can be a king," said King Cobra, the big snake in the zoo.

"It's not everyone who can be a queen," said Mrs. Cobra.

"You're not really a queen," said King Cobra. "You're called Mrs. King Cobra."

"Maybe I am called that, but why should I not be a queen if you are a king?"

"To be sure I don't care about you especially."

"But still I was your mate once and you're as nice as any snake around here, so do me the honor of calling me Queen Cobra."

King Cobra hissed and grinned and then he wriggled around so his head rested on the center of his long body. He looked at Mrs. Cobra for a moment and he said:

"I don't know whether we like each other or not."

"I'm sure I don't know," said Mrs. King Cobra.

"It is hard," said King Cobra. "You see," he continued, as he wriggled a little more and looked at Mrs. King Cobra as she wriggled in her cage nearby, "I don't know whether it would be said we do not like each other because we do not care to eat each other."

"Or whether it would be said that we do like each other because we would not eat each other."

"It's a hard question indeed," said Mrs. King Cobra. "We were mates in the Malay peninsula where they came and got us."

"That was an honor! They brought us such a distance so they could show us off."

"But to continue with the interesting subject of whether we like each other or not."

"Of course we don't really care for each other so much. I'd be happy so long as I was well fed and I wouldn't much care about you."

"But then again I wouldn't eat you, as I've said before."

"And then comes that other difficult part of the question."

"Is it rude of us not to want to eat each other? It's a compliment we pay the other snakes."

"It is a compliment," said King Cobra.

"But let us not think over these questions any more," he added, "for,

"You're Not Really a Queen," said King Cobra.

after all, we haven't much love in our snake hearts for any one or anything except our meals and our sleep while we're here in the zoo.

"And out of the zoo we have still less love in our snake hearts for we're the snake-eating cobra family."

"We're the snakes who eat other living snakes and enjoy it, too."

"We're very dangerous and very powerful. I'll call you queen if you wish but it's really even a greater compliment to be known as the most dangerous family of snakes."

"And when some one who came to the zoo the other day said that he supposed when I proposed that I hissed out the snake words for 'Will you wriggle through life with me?' he was not talking sense."

"Not talking sense," repeated King Cobra.

"Nonsense," said Mrs. Queen Cobra. "That's what a lack of sense is—nonsense."

"Queen, please," she hissed.

"Not bad, Mrs. King Cobra. Not so royal, but still, not bad."

Mrs. Queen Cobra went to sleep after this. The conversation had been quite satisfactory.

Pieces Cut Too Little

Johnny had been instructed not to ask for a second helping of cake. He eyed his empty plate wistfully, then said, "Mother, you are a good cake baker." When his mother did not take the hint, he added, "But you are 'clipped to cut the pieces too little.'"

No Such Word

Teacher (in spelling class)—Johnny, spell "tail."

Johnny—I can't.

Teacher—You can't spell that simple word? Why not?

Johnny—"Cause you told me there's no such word as 'tail.'"

Teacher—Now, Bessie, can you tell me what an island is?

Little Bessie—Yes, ma'am. An island is a place you can't leave without a boat.

He had just informed the Pullman agent that he wanted a Pullman berth.

"Upper or lower?" asked the agent.

"What's the difference?" asked the traveler.

"A difference of fifty cents in this case," replied the agent. "The lower is higher than the upper. The higher price is for the lower. If you want it lower you will have to go higher. We sell the upper lower than the lower. In other words the higher is lower. Most people don't like the upper, although it is lower on account of being higher. When you occupy an upper you have to go up to go to bed and get down when you get up. You can have the lower if you say higher. The upper is lower than the lower because it is higher. If you are willing to go higher, it will be lower."

"Thank you," said he. "I think I will go by trolley."

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

The War With the Cherokees. by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

THE FRENCH AND INDIAN WAR WAS FOLLOWED BY SEVERAL SERIOUS OUTBREAKS OF THE INDIANS. THE CHEROKEES, WHO LIVED ON THE BORDER OF THE CAROLINAS, HAD AIDED THE ENGLISH AGAINST THE FRENCH, BUT HAD DONE SO UNWILLINGLY. A WAR PARTY, SENT TO HELP FORTS TAKE FORT DUQUESNE (1759), DESERTED AND ON THEIR WAY HOME KILLED AND ROBBED SOME OF THE SETTLERS.

THE WHITES SPRANG TO ARMS AND A BLOODY WAR BEGAN ON THE FRONTIER. TROOPS WERE SENT AGAINST THE CHEROKEES (1759-1760) AND FIERCE FIGHTING TOOK PLACE IN THE INDIAN COUNTRY, BUT AS SOON AS THE SOLDIERS WERE WITHDRAWN THE SAVAGES RENEWED THEIR RAIDS UPON THE BORDER.

IN 1760 THE REDSKINS FORCED THE SURRENDER OF FORT LONDON, AN ISOLATED POST BEYOND THE MOUNTAINS. WHEN THE GARRISON OF 200 SOLDIERS RETREATED, THE INDIANS PURSUED THEM, KILLED THIRTY AND MADE THE SURVIVORS CAPTIVES.

THE NEXT YEAR COLONEL GRANT WAS SENT TO QUELL THE UPRISING. WITH A FORCE OF 2500 HIGHLANDERS AND RIFLEMEN, HE MARCHED THROUGH THE LAND OF THE CHEROKEES, BURNING THEIR VILLAGES AND SLAYING THEIR WARRIORS, AND FORCED THEM TO ASK FOR PEACE.

The KITCHEN CABINET

(By 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

I have never known persons who exposed themselves for years to constant interruption who did not muddle away their intellects by it at last—Florence Nightingale.

A FEW CHOICE DISHES

The following recipe using spinach is one worth cherishing:

Florentine Spinach Soup—Shred very fine two quarts of well washed spinach and one head of lettuce. Put the vegetables into a saucepan with three-fourths of a cupful of butter, and one pint of shell peas. Cook slowly, adding a sprig of parsley and thyme; moisten with three quarts of good stock and simmer until the vegetables are cooked. Add six beaten egg yolks and one cupful of cream; season to taste and serve with grated cheese and croutons of bread.

Sweetbread Cream Soup—Parboil one pair of sweetbreads, remove the skin and cut into quarter-inch cubes, fry in two tablespoonfuls of butter, sprinkle with two tablespoonfuls of flour; stir and mix well, then add two quarts of real broth. Simmer 30 minutes; season with salt and nutmeg; before serving add one cupful of cream and the beaten yolks of four eggs.

Pea Roast—Take three cupfuls of dry bread crumbs that have been rolled and sifted. Take a pint of green peas, cooked, and put through a puree sieve while hot. Mix the crumbs with the pea puree. There should be about three-quarters of a cupful; add one-fourth cupful of walnut meats chopped, one egg slightly beaten, one teaspoonful of sugar, and one-fourth of a cupful of melted butter with three-fourths of a cupful of milk. Mix well and turn into a well-buttered pan. Bake 40 minutes in a slow oven. Serve with tomato sauce.

Aristocratic Johnny Cake—Take two tablespoonfuls of shortening; add the beaten yolks of four eggs, a pint of milk, a cupful of corn meal and four sifted with four teaspoonfuls of baking powder; a tablespoonful of sugar, a teaspoonful of salt, and lastly fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs and bake 40 minutes in a hot oven. This recipe may be halved for a small family.

One-Piece Frock and Straight-Lined Coat

The one-piece frock of blue and white crepe de chine, topped by a straight-lined coat of white flannel, comprises a charming ensemble for summer.

Many Versions of Ever Popular Jumper Frock

The possibilities of the two-piece jumper frock, which may with truth be said to dominate the fashions of this season, are apparently inexhaustible. Each week sees a new and different interpretation.

Differing only in material and slight details, but keeping to the comfortable simple and smart lines which have achieved such success for this type of dress, the jumper frock is found in the summer wardrobe of the majority of women.

Few modes have ever been designed which combined in so great a degree the attributes of chic and serviceability. At the French resorts, it is said, the smart women are wearing these little costumes of tweed or homespun belted with leather, while the balbriggan frock at the moment enjoys as great a vogue in America as it does in France. Especially popular are modes in faint pastel shades of pink, blue, lavender and green. These colors are also exploited in similar jumper models developed in Chinese damask, a patterned material that is much in vogue.

Deauville Offers Luxurious Suggestions for Resort Wear.

Deauville—The pretty little Norman village has opened its dainty shops that look so much like toys, and which contain wares so expensive that only millionaires, or those who have been very lucky at the tables, dare to venture in.

It is noticeable that the big Paris dressmakers are rather fighting shy of Deauville. Only four of them are represented this year. Lanvin, Redfern, Cheruit and Poiret.

Lanvin Appliques Ribbon or Striped Silks.

Lanvin is showing some delightful fur wraps in summer ermine and various smooth and flat furs, dyed in attractive shades of brown and beige that are certain to find favor before the Deauville season is ended. She also has her usual selection of frocks, both for day and evening wear, and is specializing for Deauville in some of the new and very popular striped silk frocks that are given the Lanvin touch by the adjustment of an appliqued ribbon or the addition of a narrow streamer.

Redfern has some printed afternoon frocks in chiffon and crepe de chine that are so charming that they ought to convince one the realm of printed fabrics is far from over. However, the pessimists would have us believe. Redfern so endorses the idea of a harmonious ensemble that he sends down to Deauville hats and bags that are just the thing that is needed to give the right value to the alluring frocks he shows.

You can always depend on Cheruit to be original as well as chic. Whether she makes a simple little sports frock or a grande robe for the evening, it is always stamped with artistic individuality. Choice at her Deauville branch is difficult. You hesitate between a delightful little jumper dress in bright pea green kasha trimmed with a band of embroidered embroidery that is Chinese in design and a grayish white cloth dress in one piece, buttoning over to one side so that the jabot of the corset melts into one with the wrap-over skirt. The Cheruit evening gowns, too, are full of charm, whether they be of satin with full pointed godets of graduated lengths outlined in mother of pearl sequins, or in the delicate printed gauze of which she is making a feature at Deauville.

Cheruit Scarfs and Perfumes.

No mention of Cheruit would be complete without a reference to the famous scarfs that are such a characteristic touch to day or evening gowns. At Deauville they are to be seen in tulle in plain colors, finished with full gathered ruffles in gay colored plaids, in tulle flounced with a contrasting shade, or sewn with feathers, and in rich metal fabrics that give such distinction to a simple gown.

SUMMER SIESTA SHOULD BE ENJOYED IN FLOWERED NEGLIGES, THESE BEING DAINY AND NEW.

The vogue for printed, especially flowered fabrics, is deep-rooted. It even extends to things one wears underneath, and to the intimate garments of the boudoir. Trousseau are sprinkled with flowered negligees and lingerie sets, and the other end of the rainbow is hidden in the hope chest, its colors tinting everything it contains.

One ingenious designer has conceived the idea that having on one evening frock equipped with attached lingerie is a means to light-

BREAKFAST COAT ADOPTS FRONT TIE MODE.

Flowered Taffeta on a Peach Ground Makes a Breakfast Coat That Ties in Front and Is Trimmed With Green Pippings and Net Ruffles.

Evening changes, quick dressing being rather necessary these hectic times, but such drastic methods may not meet with universal approval.

Flowered taffeta is not as much in use as flowered chiffon, but is quite in the sartorial picture for evening frocks for those who like figured negligees as one may require.

Flowered lingerie is still new enough to give pause, and negligees are of course, taking their cue from them.

The newer prints are geometric in pattern and cubist in spirit. Daintier flowered motifs, however, have their place in the boudoir, and are offered as a refreshing change from the rather exotic type of negligee heretofore chosen above all others by the modern bride.

Coat negligees are taking on front fullness, much after the order of outercoats, and some of these are reversing this order and being full across the back.

Can two couples be friends when their incomes are $10,000 apart?

MICHAEL and MARION, his pretty wife, and Charley Hart all came to New York from the same little town. Michael and Marion did pretty well; Charley Hart succeeded.

"It won't make any difference," said Michael to Marion, "Charley's one of my oldest friends."

Does it make a difference? Look about at the people you know. What happens to their habits and their friendships, when their incomes change? Are our lives really determined by our purchasing power?

You will hear many people discussing this question after they have read "One of My Oldest Friends." It is by F. Scott Fitzgerald, who wrote "This Side of Paradise" and "The Beautiful and Damned."

Standing Causes Strain

Standing causes more strain on the arches of the feet than walking because there is no relief from weight bearing in standing. Many persons can walk miles without tiring, but suffer considerably if compelled to stand in a street car or elevated coach for 30 minutes.—Elyria.

In addition to J. T. Johnson's account of bobnobbing with the president, the Rotary Club had an elaborate program at the luncheon on Wednesday and entertained and was entertained by Frank Fuller, a member of the Youngstown, Ohio, Rotary Club. Mr. Fuller substituted for Charles Ramsey on the program and sang two delightful tenor solos.

Arthur Morrill was welcomed back after an absence of five weeks and told of visits made to Rotary Clubs at Albany, Troy, Saratoga Springs, Watertown, Carthage and other places.

S. D. Scudder reported that the Rotary float would surely float in the Chamber of Commerce and Farm and Home Bureau picnic parade on Friday, August 23, and also reported that Dollar Day was a success.

The program, in charge of John H. Gregory and David Burgevin, began with an essay by Mr. Gregory on "Sweet Adeline" which was followed by the singing of "Where the River Shannon Flows" by what Mr.
Gregory termed a quartet and a half composed of Frank P. Messin-ger, W. Anderson Carl, William O'Reilly, J. T. Johnson, James Byrne and M. A. Bebarfald, Messrs. John-

because they were on the program much to expect them to sing in the quartet and a half. Several persons paid fines for being caught weeping during the singing.

"Speech is Silver, Silence is Gold-of an address by L. S. Coe, who was substituting for L. S. Coe, who was absent.

Arthur C. Connelly on the program to sing "Sweet Genevieve," sang "Juanita" instead and more fines were collected for weeping.

President Harder read an original worth and a debate on "What Kind a serious conclusion applicable to Rotarians who are not doing their full duty.

JAMES F. BARTON IS NATIONAL ADJUTANT

James F. Barton, formerly assistant national adjutant of the American Legion and prior to that for several years adjutant of the Iowa department, is now national adjutant. He succeeded Russell Creviston of Indiana, who retired at the end of July after a connection of six years with the national organization to become field director for the War Mothers'
Memorial association at Washington.

The new adjutant has been active in the Legion ever since its formation.
He was chosen commander of Fort Dodge post 130, Fort Dodge, Iowa, before the first national convention at Minneapolis in 1919. He became adjutant of the Iowa department in the fall of 1920. Prominent members of the Legion in Iowa say that a large part of the credit for making and keeping the Iowa department one of the best in the Legion belongs to Jim Barton.

Ten days after war was declared in 1917, Barton entered the service. In a month he was promoted to captain. He saw service overseas for 14 months.
He was discharged at Camp Dodge, Iowa, August 8, 1919. He was a star athlete at the University of Iowa, where he captained the basketball team in his senior year. He took a law course there.

Mr. Creviston, immediately following his relinquishment of the duties of national adjutant, went to Rome,
Italy, as secretary of the American Legion delegation to the Rome congress of Fidae. For that purpose he was granted a special leave of absence from his work as field director with the War Mothers' Memorial association, which is seeking to erect a great memorial in honor of the mothers of the men and women who served in all the wars in which the country has taken part.

Resolutions of appreciation of Mr.
Creviston's services with the Legion, together with a watch and a past national adjutant's badge as tokens of personal esteem, were presented to him on behalf of the national executive committee. The resolutions, drawn up by a committee composed of Past National Commander Henry D. Lindsley, Past National Commander Hanford MacNider and Donald Strachan, recited Mr. Creviston's long and able services to the national organization and the vision and understanding which he brought to his duties.

Mr. Creviston, whose home is at Marion, Ind., helped to plan the first national convention of the Legion at Minneapolis. He became assistant national adjutant in 1920 and was promoted to the national adjutancy in Good Shooting

The Stars and Stripes must never touch the ground.
E. P. Robertson was taught that when he was serving his nation in olive drab in far-off France. He remembered it recently while he was wearing the blue of a uniformed policeman at Atlanta, Ga.

Walking his beat, Robertson saw a party of joy riders. Trailing from their car was an American flag. It was being dragged through the dust and dirt and filth of the street.

Robertson's marksmanship record in the army is not known, but examination revealed that,
although he fired but four shots to stop the desecrators of the flag, his sense of sight and balance was good; the rear tires of the feeling automobile were each neatly bored twice by the former doughboy's fire.

Restoration Camp

"Camp American Legion," new restoration camp for veterans established through the instrumentality of the Legion department of Wisconsin, was dedicated at Tomahawk lake recently before an audience of 1,500 persons.

"Since the close of the war," said a Legion official, "hundreds of men have been discharged from hospitals with the advice from the staff physicians to get out into the open. The advice was not taken because the average former service man has no money to spend upon a vacation. As a result they went back to their old jobs and within a matter of months were back at the hospital with broken health again.
This big summer camp at Tomahawk lake will provide the needed environment for large number of convalescent veterans."

A Nest Egg

"If I had the money, dearie," he bemoaned, "we would be married, but I am penniless."
"Don't worry, darling," she cheered him. "I've been saving all the small change that slips out of your pocket on the sofa every night."—The American Legion Weekly.

gelo." Freminet painted the decorations in the royal chapel of the palace of Fontainebleau. He died in 1612.

"Robbing Peter to pay Paul"

His method was to "rob Peter to pay Paul."
There were always a certain number of delinquent accounts. When someone paid, he would pocket the collection and still carry the account as delinquent.
He finally confessed to the embezzlement of $9,300.

Derivation of "Mary"

Authorities have found that the name "Mary," so frequently used in the Bible, does not carry with it the connotation of bitterness, as had been supposed for so long. It comes from Maria, the name of the sister of Palestine, a flower of pleasant fragrance. Mount Moriah was named for it—and later it was constructed into Mary.

ITALIAN LAKES

Belagio, on Lake Como.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

FEW of the beauty spots of Europe surpass in charm and grandeur the Italian lakes toward which the stream of summer travelers is now taking its way. In this region there is a wonderful combination of air, sky, water, mountains, and vegetation as well as embellishments by works of man, both ancient and modern. There are many lakes located in the extreme northern part of the country, some forming a portion of the boundary line between Italy and Switzerland. The most beautiful of these are Lake Como, Lake Lugano and Lake Maggiore. Milan is the convenient starting point for a trip to these three lakes.

It is but a short journey by rail from Milan to the shores of Lake Como, considered by many to be the most beautiful of all the lakes in northern Italy. This was one of the favorite haunts of the old Romans, and was known among them as Lacus Larius, but is now the summer residence of the Milanese aristocracy. It is 38 miles long, one to three miles wide, and situated among lofty mountains, some rearing their peaks 5,000 feet above its placid waters.

The journey up the lake is one of the most enjoyable scenic treats it is possible to conceive. At one moment it appears as a wide river, the banks being lined with verdant slopes and terraces for the growth of the vine, while at the next it opens out as a vast stretch of water. As the boat glides swiftly onward, wonderful glimpses are to be had of the snow-white villas and grim turreted castles peeping out of the forest and semitropical gardens. Another interesting feature is the color of the foliage, as the shores are bordered with the dull gray-green of the olive, while a little higher up is the brilliant green of the walnut and chestnut which harmonizes so well with the deep-blue sky and placid waters. There are many peninsulas and promontories jutting out into the water, and on these are quaint villages surrounded by their gardens, palms and olive groves.

Charming Bellagio.

On one of these stands Bellagio as a jewel in the crown of nature, situated about half way up Lake Como, where the southern extremity of the lake divides into two bodies of water, the other being called Lake Lecco. It is a charming location and the town no less interesting, for here are the busy arcades, where the merchants display their wares of local industries. These consist principally of manufactured woodwork made into inlaid boxes, picture frames, and small articles of various forms, and silks made into blankets, scarfs, etc. Several streets leading to the upper portion of the town consist of ancient stone steps, lined on both sides with shops and homes of small industries.

From Bellagio it is but a few minutes by steamer to Menaggio, and on this trip one sees for the last time the square-rigged sailing vessels and the peculiar characteristics of the barcas, or boats, which are made serviceable in all kinds of weather by spreading canvas over hickory arches fastened on either side to the bulwarks.

Menaggio is a quaint little town, but the spirit of commercialism is rather more apparent than at other points. Here one takes a steam tram, which winds up the side of the mountain. For a time the train follows the banks of a wild and rushing mountain torrent which flows into Lake Como, while later it descends on the brink of a great gorge containing a similar rushing stream, until Porlezza, on the shore of Lake Lugano, is reached.

This lake is much smaller than Lake Como, sixteen miles long and two broad, and differs very greatly from the latter in scenery. Densely wooded mountains dip precipitously into its waters.

A noted change in vegetation occurs the moment the bay of Lugano is entered: Instead of the rough and rugged variety, it is of a rich and thriving nature, varying with the neighboring lakes.

First is noticed Lugano Paradiso, nestled at the foot of the slopes of Mount Salvatore, and a little farther on the town of Lugano itself, which is delightfully situated, enjoying a very equable climate, being mild in winter, yet avoiding the excessive heat of the long, hot summers. Lugano is interesting.

There are several things that make a halt here very enjoyable, both from a historic and scenic standpoint. One of the hotels has figured prominently in history of ages past, being a convent till suppressed in 1848. The town is quite old, and among its other treasures is the church of San Lorenzo, having a wonderfully decorated marble facade in early Renaissance style, and the convent chapel of Santa Maria Degli Angeli, containing most beautiful frescoes by Lulini.

A few hours spent in a trip by a cog railway to the top of Mount Salvatore repays one very well by the wonderful view, spreading out in all directions, and from its summit, on a clear day, many of the lakes of northern Italy may be seen, including those of Garda, Orta and Varese.

A short journey by rail brings one to the edge of Lake Maggiore, which though limited to a certain extent in its beauty area, is unsurpassed in parts. The northern portion is by far the best, the beauty culminating in the neighborhood of Stresa. It was called by the Romans Lacus Verbanus, and is, as its modern name implies, the largest in the vicinity, being forty miles long and in places six to seven miles wide. It is a beautiful and picturesque ride down the lake, past many summer homes and villas, with their lovely surroundings, nestling in peace at the foot of the many mountain peaks.

One of the first places of interest to the traveler is Laveno, situated on the west coast of the lake and near the mountain of Tasso del Ferro. From the summit the white marble cathedral of Milan, over forty miles away, can be seen distinctly, with its many turrets and pinnacles.

Across the lake lies Pallanza, a busy little town at the foot of Mt. Rosso, which is more of a winter resort, owing to its warm southern winds.

The Borromean Isles. Proceeding southward one reaches the interesting Borromean Isles, which are four in number—Isola S. Giovanni, Isola Bella, Isola Madre and Isola Superiore—the first three belonging to the noble family of Borromeo.

Isola Madre is a charming place, built with seven terraces, having gardens containing rich and rare tropical fruit trees and flowers growing in profusion. It is well kept and a fine place to spend a pleasant hour or so. Isola Bella is thoroughly artificial and rather more curious than beautiful, with terraces, formal gardens, and groves, which contrast with the wilderness and simplicity of some of the other islands of the group. It has an interesting history, for previous to 1670 it was nothing but a barren rock, without vegetation and subjected to the washing of the waves, which had dashed against it for centuries, almost cutting it in two. At that time Count Borromeo started the great task of making it into the fairy place it is today by quarrying the rock from places and filling it in others, building the arches, terraces and buttresses.

Thousands of boatloads of rich earth were brought from the mainland and distributed over the rock in sufficient depth to insure vegetation its proper nourishment. This being accomplished, the chateau was built and finished in a lavish manner, many of the original articles still remaining intact, such as furniture, draperies, carvings and personal effects of the various residents. Among other things of historic interest here is the bed in which Napoleon slept the night before the battle of Marengo.

On Isola Superiore is a charming little fishing village, very compact and contrasting with the clean and neat island just described. The white town of Stresa lies on the edge of the lake, while on the mountain slopes back of the town are verdant pastures for the grazing of the herds. A very fine view is to be had from here of the Borromean Isles, lying but a short distance to the northward.

Mt. Montarone, which is near here, rivals the Rigi of Switzerland in the fine view to be had from its summit. The plains of Lombardy and Piedmont spread out in panorama, while their rivers appear as ribbons of silver interlacing them.

From Stresa the train is taken for the return journey to Milan, so completing the circuit of the lakes.

President Leaves Vermont Home

Spending Night in Northampton Where He Embarked on Career—Scheduled to Reach Swampscott Friday.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Plymouth, Vermont, Aug. 20.—All plans were made today for the departure of President Coolidge from his father's home here to Swampscott, Mass., and the summer White House.

This afternoon the executive and Mrs. Coolidge will leave Plymouth by motor with the expectation of stopping over night at Northampton, Mass., to visit Mrs. Coolidge's mother, Mrs. Elmira Goodhue.

The president is looking forward to the overnight stay in Northampton with more than usual interest. It was there he made the political start that carried him to the White House. It was there he hung out his law shingle, there he met his wife, there his children were born. It was from Northampton following service as its mayor, that he went to the state legislature, then to the governorship and then into national politics.

Mrs. Goodhue is now living in the modest two family house in which, at a rental of $32.50 a month, the president housed his family during his life in Northampton. There again he expects to find pleasant memories.

The schedule calls for the president and Mrs. Coolidge to leave their old home tomorrow morning, arriving in Swampscott tomorrow afternoon.

Old Neighbors Plan Reception.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 20.—President Coolidge will receive his neighbors and a delegation of city officials on the front porch of the modest two family house in Northampton, where he resided when governor of Massachusetts, when he arrives for an overnight stay with Mrs. Elmira Goodhue, mother of Mrs. Coolidge.

As the time for the arrival of the presidential party is uncertain, no formal celebration has been planned. Mrs. Goodhue, up to this morning, had received no word direct from Plymouth of the plan of President and Mrs. Coolidge to visit her, and was informed of his intentions only through press dispatches.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, Aug. 20.—Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Doyle of Main street, who have spent a few days visiting relatives and friends in Brooklyn and Stamford, N. Y., have returned to their home.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ostrander, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. McDonald, have returned to New York City.

Mrs. Elvina Auchmoody of Kingston spent Tuesday with Mrs. Martin Van Keuren on Salem street.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wiedeman and daughter, Doris, of Brooklyn are guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Mayer on Broadway.

Miss Myra Van Fleet of Kingston was the guest of Mrs. Martin Van Keuren on Salem street Sunday.

The Sunday school of the Reformed Church will hold its annual picnic at Forsyth Park Saturday afternoon, August 22. All the members of the school and their families, and the home department and their families are requested to meet at the church at 2 o'clock, where conveyances will be furnished to take them to the park.

Celebrations Eighteenth Birthday.

Joseph C. Mould of 36 Lafayette avenue is celebrating his eighteenth birthday anniversary today. Mr. Mould is well-known throughout the city having been connected with the freight department of the Ulster & Delaware railroad for many years. He is hale and hearty and his many friends hope he may see many more birthdays.

Electricity, Not Monkey Glands

Sixty-six Year Old Youngster With Voice Like a Bull Claims Wonderful Rejuvenating Power for Discovery.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 20.—Now that the world has laughed away the alleged "rejuvenation" claims for monkey glands, an English inventor has come forward with the claim that he is able to rejuvenate the old and put off the old age feeling in the middle aged by the medium of electricity.

He is O. C. J. G. L. Overbeck of Grimsby, an apple-cheeked youngster of 66 with a voice like a bull and he claims to have "the feelings of a child and a curious feeling of happiness," all brought about by trying his own invention on himself.

Briefly, the rejuvenation theory of this inventor with the multiplicity of initials, is that as atoms are constructed out of electricity, the human brain is, therefore, made from electricity also.

People get run down and old because the electricity has evaporated from their brains, according to Overbeck. Put more electricity into the brain, and the patient gets his lost energy and youth back—or at least so the inventor says.

Happy Phrases Coined by Unlettered Persons

The best of all word makers are the unlettered. Professor Gildersleeve said that the masses own the language. Melherbe, the exquisite Parisian poet and connoisseur of words, frankly owned that his masters of speech were the porters in the Maymarket.

When Roosevelt was a ranch owner and had been felling trees with his men, he happened to overhear one of them say, "Bill cut down fifty-three, I cut forty-nine, and the boss he beavered down seventeen."

Roosevelt, who always enjoyed a good joke on himself went on, "Those who have ever seen the stump of a tree gnawed down by a beaver will understand the exact force of the comparison."

We have always needed a word for mistake as applied to action, and the Maine guide has coined it. Robert Haven Schuchman writes, in the Century Magazine. When he runs his canoe upon a rock or chooses a channel with insufficient water, he makes a "mis-go."

A homespun New England philosopher in southern California coined an excellent verb. He was arguing that sterling qualities of heart are rarer than those of head. "Oh, h—l," he exclaimed, "why, you can just go out and huckleberry for brains, but a heart of gold is as rare as a diamond."

And my hired man, a racy son of Cape Cod, once made a piquant adjective out of a noun by referring to Charles O. Elms as "the best-booked man in Scituate." He it was who, one day when the weather was too unfavorable for him either to "hay it" or "hoe it," smashed his false teeth on the well curb, and had to "gum it."

Children, too, have a sure instinct at times for word coining. I know some who christened their playroom "The squealery."

Somber Colors for Chinese

One sign of the leveling influence of commercial atmosphere is noticed in the principal business centers of China, where black and other somber and dignified colors are now the Chinese business man's dress. Gone are the brilliant flowery silks and satins that once fitted among Chinese hongs and made the Chinese business world so picturesque. China is falling in line with the world in a business war. Foreign-style clothing is becoming increasingly popular, and even Chinese who still cling to their native dress have adopted the foreign taste of plain and dark materials as their business color. In Shanghai silks, so long the synonym in popular imagination for China, are going out of fashion for business wear. Foreign imported woollens are gaining favor. During the last four years woollen imports have increased fourfold and silk merchants state that the new taste is having a marked effect on their trade. Here is evidence plenty for those who complain that business is driving all the art and color out of life.

Peaches From Africa

South Africa has recently been sending peaches to England in rather large quantities, and a few are finding their way to this country by way of novelty. It is no doubt due to the facility of raising the peach from the stone that it has spread to so many countries, and to such a number of varieties. Wherever it has gone it has taken a foremost place in popularity, especially among epicureans, such as the Romans, who it may be gathered from Pliny, introduced it from Persia and associated its name with that country—Persica. It has been grown in England since the middle of the sixteenth century, but climatic conditions are generally against it for outdoor culture, and has forced growers to resort to glass.

Wedding Rings That Lie

Jewelry in many towns in the United States report that wedding rings are losing their significance; that is to say, a wedding ring on the finger of a girl is ceasing to be a sure sign that she is married.

Hundreds of girls are buying cheap wedding rings, according to the jewelry stores, some because they believe the ring will make them more attractive to men, and others because they believe wedding rings offer girls protection against men.

Engagement rings also are selling in great numbers, presumably owing to a desire on the part of girls to prove they are sought after by men and at last.

Scotland Forever

Jean entered a butcher's shop in a little town in Scotland and demanded to see a sheep's head.

"Is it English?" she asked when one was shown her.

"No, lass, it's Scotch," replied the butcher.

"Then I'll be do," said Jean. "Mind, I'm English and she said I was to be sure and bring English meat."

"Here, Jack," said the butcher, tossing the sheep's head over to his assistant, "take the brains out of that, will you?"—Yankee Post.

Cycle Mishap Fatal to Spalt

William Spalt Dead of Fractured Skull Received When Thrown From Motorcycle Wednesday—Funeral on Saturday.

William C. Spalt, son of Charles J. Spalt, grocer of 526 Delaware avenue, was thrown from his motorcycle Wednesday afternoon about 3 o'clock while he was engaged in delivering orders to Goldrick's Landing and died of the injuries sustained shortly after being brought to the Kingston City Hospital in the city ambulance.

Shortly after 3 o'clock word was sent to the police of the accident and the ambulance was rushed to the scene in record time in charge of Officers Burger and Fatum. Spalt was taken to the hospital where it was found he had sustained a fracture of the skull. He died about 4 o'clock.

At the time of the accident Spalt was engaged in delivering orders from the store. He had started to go to Goldrick's Landing and had arrived at the intersection of the Flatbush road and the road leading to the landing. He was driving his cycle with one hand and in the other hand had the articles for delivery. In making the turn his machine struck a depression in the highway and he was thrown from the seat. At the intersection of the roads is a mail box which is partially supported by large rocks. As he was thrown from the machine his head struck one of these supporting rocks, inflicting the fatal injury.

A passing motorist gave the alarm and the police and State Troopers were notified. Sergeant Cunningham and Trooper Metzger responded and made an investigation to learn if there had been any vehicle in the vicinity which might have been responsible for the accident.

News of the sudden death of the young man comes as a great shock to his many friends, who were endeared to him by his jovial disposition and integrity. In 1920 he was confirmed by the Rev. P. S. Baringer at the English Lutheran Church. He was an alumnus of Kingston High School class of '23 and a member of the Order of De Molay. Besides his parents he is survived by four brothers, Henry, Carl, Victor and Oscar, all of this city and two sisters, Mrs. Jessie Dunham of Walden and Vera at home.

The funeral services will be held from the home of his parents, 526 Delaware avenue Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

FINED $25 FOR DRIVING CAR WITH DEFECTIVE BRAKES

George O. Olsen, 25, of Highland was arrested Monday afternoon when it is alleged he struck three cars on Main street, Poughkeepsie, near Water street. Policeman Shelly of the Poughkeepsie police force, who was riding in the police patrol, one of the three cars alleged to have been struck, arrested Olsen.

Policeman Shelly reported that he was riding in the patrol on Main street hill when he saw Olsen's car strike a truck of the Poughkeepsie Ice Cream Company and then strike the police patrol, damaging it in the rear. He said that the Hudson driven by Olsen then struck the Ford of Thomas E. Cross of Lagrangeville. Olsen was arraigned in city court Tuesday afternoon and pleaded guilty to a charge of having defective brakes on his automobile and was fined $25 by City Judge John B. Grubb.

MOUNTAIN CLIMBERS WON WITH AID OF HOT TEA.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Tiffin, Aug. 20.—Five girls and the tea they made were given credit today for the successful ascent of Mount El Bruz, Europe's highest mountain, by a party of 19 members of the Georgia Geographic Society. Mount El Bruz is 18,526 feet above sea level at the pinnacle, which gives it an elevation of 3,000 feet greater than Mount Blanc.

During the frequent stops in the ascent, the five girls made pots of steaming tea and served the weary climbers.

Out of the Past

Our kind correspondent, H. F. F. sends us a lengthy contribution of clipped anecdotes and jokes from a scrapbook compiled in 1840. We have room for but two:

A beautiful woman said to a general officer, "How is it, having talked so much glory, you should still seek for more?" "Ah, madame," he replied, "for it is that you who have so much beauty should still put on rouge?"

"Tom, tell me the greatest lie, now, you ever told in your life and I'll give you a glass of cider."

"No, I never told a lie."

"Boy, draw the cider."—Boston Transcript.

Scotland Forever

Jean entered a butcher's shop in a little town in Scotland and demanded to see a sheep's head.

"Is it English?" she asked when one was shown her.

"No, lass, it's Scotch," replied the butcher.

"Then I'll be do," said Jean. "Mind, I'm English and she said I was to be sure and bring English meat."

"Here, Jack," said the butcher, tossing the sheep's head over to his assistant, "take the brains out of that, will you?"—Yankee Post.

MOTION PICTURES OF BIG ROAD JOB

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Dynamite, black powder, steam, hydraulic hoists, compressed air, iron, steel and cement became the tools of the road builder when engineers of the bureau of public roads undertook to build a modern highway through the rugged Cuyama valley in southern California and found themselves tackling the heaviest road-construction job in the West. The building of the Cuyama road is graphically depicted in the new United States Department of Agriculture educational motion picture, "The Road Goes Through."

The old road through the Cuyama valley followed the course of the Cuyama river and forded the stream nearly seventy-five times. The flood waters of this river endangered the lives of travelers, keeping the road closed at certain seasons, and the treacherous Cuyama extended a perpetual challenge to man. Federal engineers accepted this challenge and conceived a new road to be carried in the mountain side, a thousand feet above the river bed, that would be open to traffic 12 months every year.

Huge quantities of dynamite and blasting powder were employed to "shoot" the right of way, and enormous "fills" were made with rock and earth of the mountain sides. When the alkali waters of the Cuyama put some of the steam boilers out of commission air compressors were installed to operate the steel jaws of the shovels. Modern bridges were built to span dry gullies which became roaring torrents during rainy seasons.

Barrier after barrier was met and overcome, and in the end the skill and industry of the road builder triumphed over nature and the Cuyama road went through.

Put Pavement Markings Before Grade Crossings

As an additional safeguard for the traveling public, Commissioner Frederick Stuart Greene of the New York state commission of highways has directed the use of a method of marking the pavement at all approaches to railroad crossings on the state highways. Says the American City (New York):

"Approaching the tracks from either direction of the highway, the automobilist will first be confronted by two white parallel stripes painted one foot wide, and placed five feet apart. These stripes will stretch clear across the pavement and will be placed 220 feet from the nearest track. The second guard against carelessness will be a third warning stripe, also 12 inches wide, painted 125 feet from the nearest track. If, after reaching this third stripe, the driver fails to 'stop, look and listen,' he will be given one more chance to save himself. The final warning signal will be two feet wide, and will be painted with white and black diagonal bars, similar to the markings on railroad gates. It will be located 25 feet from the nearest track, which, if the driver is not running beyond the legal rate of speed, will still give him opportunity to stop before reaching the track. It is hoped by the commission that this new warning device will serve to reduce the number of grade-crossing accidents during the long period that must elapse before all grade crossings can be eliminated in New York state."

Farms-to-Market Roads Being Badly Neglected

The problem of improving the roads from the farmer's door to the main highway or shipping station still remains unsolved. It was the intent of the federal law that this part of highway construction should go alongside of the truck line extension, says Indiana Farmers' Guide. The farmers' organization leaders held out for this agreement, and thought they had won when the law was enacted. But farmers are complaining to the department that they have not yet received their share of highway construction. Most of the money so far has been spent in constructing through routes. And the benefits from these trunk lines between the cities are not very apparent to farmers who are compelled to drive their loaded trucks over several miles of unimproved dirt roads almost impassable at times.

It has been estimated that there are 250,000 motor trucks now on farms in comparison with 120,000 in 1920. The greatest advance in truck hauling has been in the movement of live stock. One-half of the hogs produced within forty miles of Omaha and Indianapolis are hauled to market by motor truck.

Don't Obscure View

Roadside planting should be a part of the general character of the landscape so that the roads themselves do not appear as a definite line apart from the rest of the landscape, but a means to an end that is in sympathy with its surroundings. The highways are the points from which the traveler sees and enjoys the surrounding country. It is, therefore, of importance that roadside planting does not shut out adjacent lands.

Two Optimists

Two livers passing a motorist on the road: "How far is it to Rock-ester?"

"Seventy miles," he replied.

"Not so bad," laughed the optimist, "only about thirty-five miles apiece."

Must Unite Or Else Elect LaFollette

Wisconsin Senatorial Situation Serious as Regular Republicans Show Dissatisfaction With Candidate Chosen to Oppose "Young Bob."

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Fearful that unless the "regulars" in Wisconsin get together and bury their tomahawks, "Young Bob" LaFollette is going to have a walkaway in the race to succeed his father's seat in the Senate, a number of administration "missionaries" will go to Wisconsin during the next few weeks to try to solidify the LaFollette opposition.

They will go with the best wishes—if not by the direct orders—of President Coolidge.

Both the president and Senator William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican National Committee, are keenly desirous of reclaiming Wisconsin to the ranks of G. O. P. regularity, not only because it increases the administration's none too comfortable majority in the Senate, but also, it is being said here, because it would give Mr. Coolidge a prestige that would come in very handy when and if the president decides to again be a candidate in 1928.

Regular Republicans in Wisconsin have advised Swampscott and Washington that the situation is "most serious" and that if it is to be saved there must be prodigious work on the part of the national administration.

The principal trouble, from the administration standpoint, is that not all of the regulars are satisfied with Leuroot's selection of Roy P. Wilcox, as the opponent for Young Bob. Two other "regulars" have shown their dissatisfaction by also becoming candidates, ex-Governor Francis E. McGovern, and Arthur Barry. This splits the LaFollette opposition to a point where Republican leaders here are downright alarmed.

Senator George H. Moses, Republican of New Hampshire, chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, already is in the state. He has personally advised Republican leaders here, as well as Senator Butler in Swampscott, that unless the regulars in Wisconsin can get together he sees little hope of defeating "Young Bob" in the primary election that will follow in two weeks later on September 22.

SAW ANDERSON DRIVING TOWARD PHILADELPHIA

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Philadelphia, Aug. 20.—"Dutch" Anderson, wanted in Muncie, Indiana, in connection with the murder of Ben Hanco, a farmer, and his wife, may be on his way to Philadelphia.

A man believed to be Anderson was seen driving at high speed along the Philadelphia Pike from Reading, Pa., late last night after a travelling salesman from Muncie, Indiana, told Reading detectives he saw Anderson calling dinner with a companion at a hotel.

The salesman told detectives he recognized the man from pictures published in newspapers.

Murphy to pay the salaries of Robert T. Kent, superintendent of prison labor industries, and J. S. Barton of Albany, an accountant in the prison industries board.

The governor took this action following a conference with James L. Lord, superintendent of prisons.

Battleships Cost $70,000,000 Each

Britain's New Capital Ships Exceed Estimated Cost by $3,000,000 Each—New Naval Program Will Result in Heavy Tax Bill.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 20.—Semi-official statistics just published relative to the cost of building modern warships show that the British tax payer will have to foot a much larger bill than he first thought for the new naval program just embarked upon by the British government.

These figures show that in all probability the warships projected and now building will cost $24,250,000, without counting the numerous smaller craft necessary. This exceeds the first estimate by $4,250,000.

The two huge capital ships now being built for Britain, the Nelson and the Rodney, will exceed their estimated cost by $2,900,000 each, and they will have cost the British taxpayers $79,000,000 by the time they have been completed.

MORE DEMONSTRATIONS AGAINST ZIONISTS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Venezia, Aug. 20.—In an atmosphere of tension the sessions of the World Zionist Congress continue and while outward calm prevailed today there is fear of a renewal of anti-Semitic demonstrations Saturday. Both the "Hakenkreuzers" and the Communists have announced that they will hold demonstrations on that day. The "Hakenkreuzers" against the Zionists and the Communists against both.

Universal Beat Freeman, 5 to 4

By tracing around a winning run in the final inning the Universal Road Machine Company team trimmed The Freeman Publishing Company team at the Athletic Field
Wednesday night by the score of 5 to 4.

The Universal outfit had the lead on the printers to start the affair but in the fourth frame The Freeman warriors pounded out three markers leaving the score. In the next frame the printers failed to cross the plate while the Universal team pushed across the run on a single base knock with the assistance of two errors.

Both twirlers were very economical in allowing base blows, DuBois giving the printers only three safeties while Huber, nearly as thrifty, granted the winners five safe blows.

Tagging Major League Bases

Three percentage points separated the Athletics from the Senators this morning as a result of the Macks' failure to make a six run rally in the ninth standup, the Browns coming back with three runs and the decision, 9 to 8.

The Giants picked up a full game on the Pirates by beating the Cubs in a free for all, 7 to 5.

Vance won his eighteenth game of the season while the Dodgers outlasted the Pirates and won 5 to 7.

After losing twenty straight games to Pete Donohue over a stretch of years, the Phils finally decided that enough was sufficient and beat the Reds, 5 to 4.

The Yanks were in a benevolent mood and their six errors made a total loss of Pennock's good pitching, the Tigers winning 4 to 3.

Ruether's pitching was not good enough to keep him with the situation to the end but his three hits, including a homer, had plenty to do with the Senators' 12 to 8 decision over the Indians.

The Braves knocked Haines for a permanent wave in the second and beat the Cardinals for the third straight time, 5 to 4.

Robertson slightly outpointed Ehman and the White Sox beat the Red Sox 3 to 1.

Big Help to Pirates

What is being anticipated as one of the biggest boxing shows of the year at Chadwick Park, Albany, with Vince Coffey of this city and Patsy Motto of Albany as the main drawing card will be on off at Albany tonight. Coffey and Motto clash in the feature bout of twelve rounds.

The Motto-Coffey bout has created immense interest as both boxers are in top notch shape after weeks of training. Motto has trained as he never did before and information coming from Coffey's training camp at Elizabeth, N. J., are to the effect that Joe Jeannette, former negro heavyweight boxer has been teaching Coffey some valuable tactics of the ring sport and expects him to become a snag in Motto's boxing career tonight. Herman Heller and Rocky Smith have been mixing with Coffey at the New Jersey training camp.

FINAL TENNIS MATCHES
IN AMERICAN ZONE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 20.—Tennis stars of Japan and Australia were on hand at the Longwood Cricket Club today to participate in the final matches in the American zone of the Davis Cup competition.

Two single matches were on the card for today.

Gerald L. Patterson, brilliant Australian veteran, and Zeno Shimizu, generally considered as the best Japanese player, were scheduled to fight it out in the opening match. In the second contest James O. Anderson, regarded as the singles ace of the Australian team, was to face Takeichi Harada, youthful Japanese star.

The doubles matches will be held tomorrow, the places to be announced late today.

On Saturday the remaining singles matches will be played. Anderson will face Shimizu and Patterson will be opposed by Harada.
